More Great News -- Record Numbers of First Time Voters Are Registering In Swing States!!

by Michael in New York on 10/04/2004 02:20:00 AM

Terrifically encouraging NYT article about the payoff in all those drives to get new voters to register. Record numbers are eligible to vote in swing states and most of the success is coming from non-partisan and Democrat groups.

"Registration numbers are impossible to tally nationwide," says the NYT, "and how many of the newly registered will vote is a matter of some debate. But it is clear the pace is particularly high in urban areas of swing states, where independent Democratic groups and community organizations have been running a huge voter registration campaign for just over a year."
